FOUR KILLED WHEN AIR LINER CRASHES ESCAPING GAS FROM KITCHEN OVERCOMES YOUNGSTERS AT PLAY

PILOT SERIOUSLY INJURED AS PLANE FALLS NEAR LONDON

Cause Being Probed; Think Pilot Lost Because Of Fog

(BULLETIN)
SPRINGFIELD, O., Jan. 1.—The toll of the airplane crash near here late yesterday was raised to four today when W. D. Weiback, Cincinnati salesman, died in Springfield City Hospital this morning.

Three other victims of the accident died last night, two being killed almost instantly when the plane plunged on a farm near Brighton. They are A. L. Wenner, Cincinnati, an engineer; Louis Stone, 34, Cincinnati; A. C. Mayer, Jr., 38, Louisville, Ky.

L. L. Bowen, Louisville, pilot of the ill-fated craft, was critically injured in the smash-up and was reported to be near death today in a hospital here.

LONDON, O., Jan. 1.—State and federal investigation was conducted today into the crash of a Cleveland-Louisville American Airways passenger plane seven miles northwest of here last night in which three passengers were killed and one passenger and the pilot were injured.

Victims of the air tragedy were A. C. Mayer of Louisville, Ky., A. L. Wenner of Cincinnati and Louis E. Stone of Norwood, O. The injured were L. L. Bowen of Louisville, pilot of the ill-fated craft, and W. D. Weiback of Cincinnati.

The crash was believed to have occurred when the plane went into a barrel roll and the right wing collapsed as the pilot was attempting to get his bearings when he became lost.

Investigation of the crash was conducted today by Captain Frank McKee, state director of aeronautics, and Freeman Alberty, inspector for the United States department of commerce.

The scene of the crash was a muddy field on the farm of C. L. Snodgrass. The plane, located by farmers who heard the crash as the ship hurtled to the ground, was found mired and wrecked in the slush.

Wenner and Mayer were found dead—crushed against the partition separating the pilot and passenger cabins. Stone and Weiback were in the rear of the passenger's cabin. Farmers had to break part of the plane to extricate Stone whose foot was pinned in the wreckage. The victim died while being rushed to a hospital in an ambulance.

Bowen, the pilot of the craft, had succeeded in freeing himself from the wreckage. He was in a semi-conscious condition when found by searchers.

Nearby the scene of the wreckage was found the pilot's ship log and in it was scribbled the prelude to the tragedy—"broken clouds, foggy—hazy," the entry read. The ship had left Columbus at 6:35 p. m. The crash occurred less than an hour later.

A last minute precaution on the part of Pilot Bowen, a veteran airman having flown seven years on the Boeing lines between Omaha, Neb., and Cheyenne, Wyo., and later on the Cleveland-Memphis line, probably saved the ship from going up in flames last night. Examination of the plane showed that the ignition switch had been turned off.

RULES ON CHARITY
COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 1.—Workmen's compensation may not be paid to charity employees who are paid for their labor by script entitling them to groceries, the industrial commission ruled today.

MAY BE FIRST

BEATRICE Ann Peterson, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Peterson, Zoar Neighborhood, south of Xenia, may claim the distinction of being Greene County's first 1932 baby. Beatrice Ann made her appearance at 12:06 a. m. Friday which may entitle her to the distinction unless another birth earlier is reported.

As a coincidence Beatrice Ann has a brother, Harold Edward, who celebrated his ninth birthday Friday. He was born at the same hour as Beatrice Ann nine years ago.

METEORIC SHOWERS AND FOUR ECLIPSES PROMISED FOR YEAR

Second Leap Year Cycle In Century Is Started

WOOSTER, O., Jan. 1.—Meteoric showers and four eclipses will be the highlights of 1932 which begins the second cycle of leap years within the present century. Dr. Benjamin F. Yanney, an authority on astronomy and professor of mathematics at Wooster College, predicted here today.

Two eclipses of the moon, each partial, will occur on March 22 and Sept. 14, being visible in various sections of North America but not at Washington, D. C. On March 7 an annular eclipse of the sun will take place in the region of Australia. On Aug. 31 the United States will be treated to a total eclipse of the sun, which will be of extreme importance to astronomers.

Between Nov. 11 and 17th a Leonid meteoric shower, comparable to the memorable one of 1866, can be expected. Dr. Yanney declared. This will be caused by the earth passing through the meteoric stream where material of spent comets is scattered along the orbit by dispersive forces.

As 1931 rolls into the leap year of 1932, Venus will hold the commanding position in the evening sky and Jupiter in the morning.

On February 7, the two will have joined and by July 1 Venus will have become the morning star.

Jupiter will follow suit on Aug. 26 both remaining thus until the end of the year.

At two periods of four to six weeks duration around May 22 and August 5 Venus will be visible in daylight.

WANT STATE TO HELP FINANCE SCHOOLS

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 1.—The Ohio Education Association went on record as favoring the assumption by the state of at least 50 per cent of the responsibility of financing schools.

The association also voted favorably on the suggestion to establish a commission to survey school finance problems and agreed that schools should be financed from taxes other than those on general property.

Delegates at the closing session of the meeting were of the opinion this step would provide for "more equitable advantages and relief from general property taxes."

The old year passed into the limbo of memories to the loud accompaniment

ANTI - FASCIST BOMB PLOT EXTENDING INTO MID - WESTERN CITIES

Police In Four Cities Probe Conspiracy As Explosives Discovered In Mails; Deadly Parcels Sent From New York

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.—The tentacles of a widespread anti-Fascist bomb conspiracy today reached into four cities of the Middle-West.

In all four of these cities police, explosive experts and agents of the department of justice and the post office combined in an intensive effort to unearth clues which might lead to the capture of the perpetrators.

The midwestern center of the plot, which already has claimed three lives, was in Chicago where authorities prevented possible heavy loss of life and property damage by seizing three powerful infernal machines before their wrappings could be removed. The bombs were addressed to Giuseppe Castruccio, Italian consul general here; Oscar Durante, editor of the Fascist Journal L'Italia, and a "Tony Masillo."

One of the bombs was exploded in a quarry after being photographed and examined, while the other two were deposited in guarded places of safety.

Bombs of similar construction and apparently from the same sources were also discovered in Cleveland, Detroit and Youngstown. Alertness of New York authorities, who learned the deadly machines had been sent express from that city, prevented disasters.

Warned of the presence of the bombs, the police of these three cities were able to confiscate them before they were taken out of their cleverly contrived packages.

In Cleveland a bomb, dispatched from New York, arrived at the Italian consulate, addressed to Count Cesar P. A. Buzzi-Gradenigo, the consul. It was discovered in time by the police who took it to a rifle range where it was destroyed by a bullet.

"The bomb received at Youngstown was addressed to Dr. Attilio Rasapepe, Italian consular agent. Police dug a large hole in a vacant lot, placed the package in the excavation, poured gasoline over the parcel and then destroyed it by tossing a lighted match upon it."

Count Ugo Berni, Italian vice-consul at Detroit, was the intended victim of another bomb, but he refused to accept delivery of the package and it was turned over to police. The deadly parcel was taken to a river bank where it was exploded harmlessly.

Each of the three bombs seized by police in Chicago contained enough explosive to destroy a skyscraper or lay waste a city block. It was revealed today by Chief of Detectives William Shoemaker.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Perpetrators of the plot to spread death and terror in pro-Fascist Italian circles throughout the nation were sought here today. All but one of the six bombs addressed to prominent persons in various cities yesterday were sent from here by mail or express.

Lieutenant Charles Newman, of the New York police department bomb squad, hunted the ring-leaders of the conspiracy in this city. Although some evidence tended to support the belief, he said he was not fully convinced the plot was due to machinations of anti-Fascist terrorists.

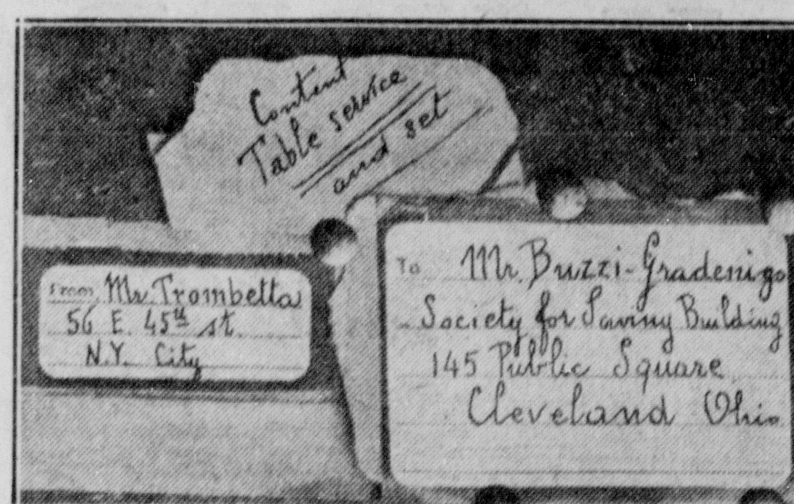

G. Valenti, editor of an anti-Fascist Italian language newspaper, wrote an editorial for today's Year's eve dances, both public and private, and a large number of watch parties in private homes.

The passing of 1931 was uneventful for Xenia authorities. Not a single arrest was made by police, but county authorities put in a busy night investigating several auto accidents attributed to the slippery condition of wet highways.

Year's eve dances, both public and private, and a large number of watch parties in private homes.

CONSUL ESCAPES DEATH FROM BOMB

Count C. P. A. Buzzi-Gradenigo, top left, Italian consul at Cleveland, O.; Miss Theodora Usal, top right, and four others escaped death or injury when he became suspicious of a package received from New York and addressed to the consul. Shot at on a rifle range by police, the package exploded, proved to be a bomb, one of several sent to Italian consuls and leaders in Cleveland, Youngstown, Detroit, Pittsburgh and other cities.

Miss Usal signed for the package when it arrived at the consulate. A bomb exploding in the Easton, Pa., post office, gave the consulates warning. The sender faked the name of Domenico Trombetta, New York Italian newspaper editor, and friend of the consul, as sender to allay suspicion. Note in the lower picture how the bomb package was labelled "Table"

Service" to prevent rough handling en route. Police who exploded the bomb on a rifle range, said it was powerful enough to destroy the ten-story building (in Cleveland's shopping center) in which it had been received.

Three persons, two boys and a girl, were injured, one of the boys seriously, in a three-car collision about 3:30 a. m. Friday on the Wilmington Pike, near Winchester Road.

Albert Wenzel, 17, Dayton, whose parents own a sedan involved in the mishap, is confined in McClellan Hospital suffering from concussion of the brain and a deep scalp wound. An X-ray is to be taken in an effort to verify the opinion of attending physicians the youth did not sustain a skull fracture.

Clarence Kritzer, 18, Dayton, driver of the sedan, was discharged from the hospital after receiving medical treatment for a cut on the nose and one hand.

Gladys Randall, 20, Spring Valley, occupant of a roadster, was also released from the hospital after treatment for skin wounds on the forehead and bruises on the right knee.

Occupants of the three autos involved in the triple collision were returning to their homes from a dance in the Maple Corner neighborhood.

According to information obtained by Sheriff John Baughn and his deputies, one of the three machines had stopped along the highway. The sedan driven by Kritzer and also occupied by Wenzel and Marian Phillips, about 18, Dayton, crashed into the parked car. A third machine, a roadster driven by Lester McCoy, near Centerville, with Gladys and Louise Randall, sisters, as passengers, hit the sedan, forcing it off the road.

ESCAPING GAS FROM KITCHEN OVERCOMES YOUNGSTERS AT PLAY

Mother Of Four Of Victims Returns Home To Find Children Dead; Efforts To Revive Fail; Blame Jet On Kitchen Range

PORT HURON, Mich., Jan. 1.—Six children, ranging from two to 16 years old, were dead today—killed by gas escaping from a kitchen range as they played in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McClure, of Marysville.

The dead are Martha McClure, 16, and her sister, Shirley, 10, Olive McClure, 9, Philistine McClure, 4, Rowley McClure, 2, and Rayfield McClure, 7.

Martha and Shirley Earl were aunts of the McClure children. Both Mr. and Mrs. McClure work during the day and Martha had been caring for her young nieces while the parents were away. Yesterday she had her sister, Shirley, at the McClure home with her.

Mrs. McClure returned home yesterday about 5 p. m. Her husband had not yet arrived. She found the six children in various rooms of the house in various postures—all dead. Detroit-Edison employees and city firemen worked for two hours in a futile attempt to revive them.

Coroner's investigators believe a gas jet in the kitchen was opened by accident.

The body of Martha, near the kitchen door, led authorities to believe she was creeping to the kitchen when she died.

TULANE, SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA STAGE ROSE BOWL CONTEST

Seventy Thousand Gather For Game; West Favored

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 1.—Southern California's warriors went forth today in an attempt to roll back the green wave and march on to a national football championship.

Under leaden skies, that failed to dampen the ardor of more than 70,000 fans, the Trojans, champions of the west, prepared to do battle with the undefeated Tulane eleven.

Chances of a slippery field, as the result of recent rains, served to shorten the odds as game time, 2:15 o'clock, (P. S. T.) drew near. Last minute wagers were recorded at 2 to 1 in favor of the representatives of the West, with 14-point money being the popular handicap.

The tremendous influx of visitors to Pasadena at an early hour for the colorful tournament of roses parade resulted in an early crowd at the Rose Bowl.

All attendance records of this classic inter-sectional gridiron rivalry were shattered long before the opening whistle for the seventeenth renewal of the tournament of roses game.

Come what may in the weather, Howard Jones, coach of the Trojans and Bernie Bierman, Tulane mentor, announced that they would "stand pat" on their lineups.

This meant that the local champions would rely on their old system of starting the battering rams—Galeus Shaver and Jim Musick—with Orv Mohler as the open-field threat on the bench.

The Greenies were prepared for their forward passing attack, with Don Zimmerman, the greatest ball-tosser in the history of Southern football, being primed for what promised to be one of the greatest games of his career.

Jerry Dalrymple and "Lefty" Haynes, Tulane's great wingmen, were ready for their assignment of catching the long tosses of Zimmerman and it was on this combination that the visitors expected to offset the power of the Trojans.

While the Trojans, with a vastly heavier line and backfield, were expected to rely chiefly upon their running attack the supporters of Tulane pointed out that in the last three years only two touchdowns have been made through the Tulane line.

Jones also was prepared to "take to the air" today and there were prospects of another battle such as that with Pittsburgh two years ago when the Trojans passed their way to an easy victory.

Six of the players in today's game have been chosen prominently on various all-American teams, Ernie Pinkert, Gus Shaver, Stan Williamson and Johnny Baker are of whom will finish their careers at Southern California, and Gerald Dalrymple and Don Zimmerman, of Tulane.

Officials of the express company then turned the infernal machine over to Lyden who took it to a lonely spot outside the city, built a fire around it and burned it. The bomb exploded with a terrific roar.

AUTOS CLAIM TWO; TOLL REACHES 124

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 1.—With the New Year's Eve celebration here last night marred by two traffic fatalities, the 1931 year's total today stood at 124.

Victims of last night's accidents were Mrs. Margaret Bessin, 70, and Mrs. Elvir D. Wolcott, 75.

Mrs. Bessin died from a compound fracture of the skull, a broken back and broken arm received when she was struck by an automobile said by police to have been driven by Henry Schweinsberger of Columbus.

Mrs. Wolcott was fatally injured when she was struck by an automobile driven by Harry Davis, 25, of Newark, according to police.

Both Davis and Schweinsberger were held for investigation by police.

FAMILIES OF BOMB VICTIMS REWARDED

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Generoso Pope, publisher of Italian newspapers in New York, tonight sent $1,000 each to the families of Edward W. Wertheimer and John B. House, Easton, Pa., postal clerks, who were killed yesterday by the explosion of bombs addressed to Pope.

In a telegram to each family, Pope said:

"Accept sincerest expression of my deep sorrow for your irreparable loss.

"The perpetration of this outrage cannot be construed in any other way but as the result of the planning of distorted minds, I hope that they soon are brought to justice and punished as they deserve.

"Please accept $1,000 as a token of my deepest sympathy."

JUST as practically everyone expected, a new year was born at midnight Thursday, and Xenians, having anticipated the advent of 1932 at this hour, welcomed the new arrival in a fittingly hilarious manner.

The old year passed into the limbo of memories to the loud accompaniment of whistles shrieking, auto horns tooting and other noise-making devices. In fact, the leap year was given a good old-fashioned reception.

The only dampening feature of the celebration was provided by the weather, but a drizzling rain in no wise put a damper on the enthusiasm of the revellers.

There were the usual New Year's eve dances, both public and private, and a large number of watch parties in private homes.

The passing of 1931 was uneventful for Xenia authorities. Not a single arrest was made by police, but county authorities put in a busy night investigating several auto accidents attributed to the slippery condition of wet highways.

Year's eve dances, both public and private, and a large number of watch parties in private homes.

"Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid."
—Matthew 5:14

Going to Church

A revival of the old-fashioned habit of regular Church attendance is one of the greatest needs of today.

Most Churches would be crowded every Sunday if all the enrolled members were in their places. The report thereof would magnify the cause of righteousness and arouse the interest of the godless and indifferent everywhere.

Going to Church is one of the simplest and most effective ways of showing our faith by our acts. Let us remember each Sunday this year that when we increase the size of the congregation by one person, we are giving added strength to the cause of righteousness.

For Parents

W. R. Hunt closes his beautiful New Year Essay, "A Morning Wish," by asking that during the year to come he be given "the sense of the presence of God." A sense of the Master's presence is a constant help along life's journey—a help that often comes with attendance at His Temple. Start the New Year right by bringing the children to Sunday School.

Away from Home?

The New Year will start with a brighter hope—1931 will seem to offer more glorious opportunities—if you begin its first Sunday by attending Church. The Churches of our city invite you—within their doors you will find hospitality, comfort, cheer—a friendly hand-clasp and a heartfelt good wish to start you on your way.

COMMISSION WILL MEET JANUARY 14

Departing from the usual custom, the annual organization meeting of City Commission for 1932 will not be held until January 14, date for the first regular meeting of the new year. Members of the commission discovered it is not obligatory to hold a special meeting in advance of the first scheduled session, just for the purpose of reorganizing, and it has been decided to dispense with the custom.

CONSTABLE HALTED FROM CLOSING SHOP BY COURT'S ORDER

Under a temporary restraining order issued in Common Pleas Court, George H. Baker, in his capacity as constable of Miami Twp., is enjoined from interfering with Chet Lee and his wife, Marie, in their joint operation of a press shop at 208 Xenia Ave. in Yellow Springs, pending final determination of an attachment suit in which George White was awarded a judgment against Lee by Squire John T. Hornaday, Miami Twp. Justice of the peace.

After the judgment was given, execution was issued and Constable Baker, the petition recites, went to the press shop Wednesday to levy on the property, locked the doors and compelled the Lees to vacate.

The temporary injunction orders the constable to refrain from taking possession of the shop. The action was filed against Baker by Marie Lee, who claims to be half owner of the press shop, and the plaintiff also seeks to recover damages incurred. Miller and Finney are attorneys for the plaintiff.

WOULD CONSTRUCT WILL.

Suit seeking direction of the court in construction of a clause contained in the will of Edward Hurst, who died December 7, 1930, has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Bennella Borden, a sister of the decedent, as administratrix of the estate, against Alfred, Margaret, Herman and William Scott, Leoma Webster, Imer Rickman and Bennella Borden, all legatees. The administratrix declares she is in doubt as to what proportions of the residue of the estate she should distribute to the heirs. C. L. Darlington and M. A. Broadstone are attorneys for the plaintiff.

SEEKS PARTITION.

Partition or sale of residence property on W. Market St. is the object of a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by E. J. Wilkins against Laura Wilkins. Each party to the action owns a one-half interest in the property, according to the plaintiff, who asks an accounting for taxes, insurance and other items paid on the upkeep of the property. Miller and Finney are attorneys for the plaintiff.

ILLUSTRATED BIBLE LESSON

The Message of the Gospel According to John

John 1:1-18

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buscher

John, "the disciple Jesus loved," was well qualified to give such a picture of Jesus as no other could. In his old age, John wrote his gospel for the purpose stated in 20:31: "These are written that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ; and that believing ye might have life through his name."

John's is the gospel of Christ's deity, which he declares by saying, "In the beginning was the word, and the word was with God. The same was in the beginning with God." Then John tells how this deity became humanity, saying, "And the word became flesh, and dwelt among us . . . full of grace and truth."

John speaks of Christ as the life and light of men: "For him was life; and the life was the light of men. And the light shineth in the darkness and the darkness apprehended it not. . . . There was the true light, even the light which lighteth every man coming into the world."

Among the numerous witnesses John cites to testify to the deity of Jesus is John the Baptist, of whom he says, "John beareth witness of him and crieth, saying, This is he of whom I said, He that cometh after me is become before me: for he was before me." GOLDEN TEXT: John 14:9.

XENIA AND GREENE COUNTY OBITUARY, FUNERAL NOTICES

MISS EMMA HUTCHISON

Miss Emma Hutchison, 89, lifelong resident of Xenia, died at the home of her niece, Miss Emma Ehlright, Corwin Ave., Thursday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock. She has been ill three weeks suffering from heart trouble.

Miss Hutchison was born in Xenia, February 7, 1842, the daughter of Andrew and Adella Hutchison. She spent her entire life here with the exception of a short time when she taught school in Adams County and a year she spent at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill. For many years she was a clerk in the Cooper and Hutchison drygoods store, and later the Hutchison and Gibney Co. Her brother, the late Clark Hutchison, was one of the partners in these companies. She was a member of the First U. P. Church having joined when she was a child.

Miss Hutchison was the last of an immediate family of seven children and is survived by the following nieces and nephews: Miss Ehlright, at whose home she died; Mrs. James Hurty and Mrs. Kate Pierson, Columbus, Mo.; Harry Ankney, Des Moines, Ia.; John Ankney, Dallas, Tex.; Miss Jessie Hutchison and Arthur Hutchison, Los Angeles, Calif. Funeral services will be held at the home of Miss Ehlright Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock and burial will be made in Woodland Cemetery.

MRS. CLARA B. PIPER

Mrs. Clara B. Piper, wife of E. H. Piper and former Xenian, died at her home, 5712 Baum Blvd., Pittsburgh, Pa., Thursday according to word received here.

Mrs. Piper was born in Cincinnati and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hartwell. She moved to this city when she was sixteen years of age. Her husband, E. H. Piper, with his brother, Joseph A. Piper, Washington D. C., spent a Xenian, operated a grocery and bakery on W. Main St., many years. The Piper family moved from Xenia to Detroit, Mich., in 1908 and later moved to Pittsburgh in 1918. While here Mr. and Mrs. Piper were active members of Trinity M. E. Church.

Besides her husband Mrs. Piper is survived by a son, Albert B. Piper, Detroit, Mich., and a daughter, Miss Lucy B. Piper, Pittsburgh. A grandson, Phillips Nash Piper; a half sister, Mrs. Lucy Hartwell Harding and a half brother, Arthur Hartwell, also survive. A sister, Mrs. Homer Thrall, this city and a half sister Mrs. Frank Drees, preceded her in death.

The remains will be brought to this city for burial and will arrive here Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Funeral services will be held at Woodland Cemetery Chapel Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock and burial will be made in Woodland Cemetery.

STEPHEN WILSON

Stephen Wilson, 83, retired farmer, died at his home, 697 S. Detroit St., Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. He had been in failing health two years suffering from a complication of diseases and he gradually declined until his condition became serious in April.

Mr. Wilson was born near Eleazer December 5, 1848. His marriage to Miss Mary Devore took place November 5, 1874 and they spent their entire married life on a farm near Bowersville until they moved to Xenia twelve years ago. He was the last of his immediate family and besides his widow is survived by an adopted son, Robert Wilson, Nevada, who was reared by the Wilson family since he was a small child.

Funeral services will be held at the home Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and burial will be made in Port William Cemetery.

The concert is for the public, there being no admission charge but a free-will offering will be taken and turned over to the clubs for their traveling expenses. The clubs will present a concert at the Opera House, Clifton, Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

SLIPPERY PIKE IS BLAMED FOR FOUR-CAR ACCIDENT THURSDAY

A stretch of the Dayton-Xenia Pike made slippery by rain and attending traffic congestion created by efforts to extricate one car from a ditch brought about a quadruple auto entanglement in which three machines and a wrecking car, trying to be of assistance, figured early Thursday night.

The fourth car accident, in which no one was hurt seriously, was in reality a succession of three accidents.

Skidding on the highway at a point where the pike was straight but slippery four miles west of Xenia, a sedan overturned on one side in a ditch.

John Baldwin, of the Baldwin Motor Co., this city, went to the assistance of the stricken autoist with a wrecking car. While the sedan was being pulled back on the road, other cars headed toward Dayton passed the wrecking car on the left.

Shortly after the sedan had been righted, another auto, traveling toward Xenia, left the road nearby on the opposite side of the pike, the car skidding after the driver had apparently applied the brakes. The wrecking car then went to the aid of the second auto. This time it was necessary for Xenia-bound cars to pass on the left, but one auto, driven by an Indiana resident, attempted to pass on the right, collided with the wrecking car and also the one in the ditch.

Damaged to some extent and the mechanism jammed, the wrecking car was driven back to Xenia by Baldwin, who later returned and completed the car-rescuing job.

TWENTY MILES OF ROADS IMPROVED

An estimated total of twenty miles of township roads in Greene County received surface treatment and were otherwise improved for travel during 1931, it is revealed by A. E. Beam, president of the Board of County Commissioners.

The road repair program during the year extended, the commissioner reported, to every township in the county except Xenia Twp.

County Commissioners and township trustees cooperated in each local road improvement project, sharing the expense on a fifty-fifty basis. It is believed by Commissioner Beam that all country roads in the county are at present in good condition. The entire cost of the road repair work to boards of township trustees was placed at about $20,000 in the commissioner's estimate.

Troop 45, Boy Scouts of America, will hold its regular meeting on Friday evening instead of Tuesday evening starting this week. All patrols are urged to be present Friday evening as important business is to be transacted according to an announcement by Scoutmaster Walter Jones.

ILLUSTRATED BIBLE LESSON

John, "the disciple Jesus loved," was well qualified to give such a picture of Jesus as no other could. In his old age, John wrote his gospel for the purpose stated in 20:31: "These are written that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ; and that believing ye might have life through his name."

John's is the gospel of Christ's deity, which he declares by saying, "In the beginning was the word, and the word was with God. The same was in the beginning with God." Then John tells how this deity became humanity, saying, "And the word became flesh, and dwelt among us . . . full of grace and truth."

The Message of the Gospel According to John

John 1:1-18

John speaks of Christ as the life and light of men: "In him was life; and the life was the light of men. And the light shineth in the darkness and the darkness apprehended it not. . . . There was the true light, even the light which lighteth every man coming into the world."

Among the numerous witnesses John cites to testify to the deity of Jesus is John the Baptist, of whom he says, "John beareth witness of him and crieth, saying, This is he of whom I said, He that cometh after me is become before me: for he was before me."

XENIA AND GREENE COUNTY OBITUARY, FUNERAL NOTICES

MISS EMMA HUTCHISON

Miss Emma Hutchison, 89, lifelong resident of Xenia, died at the home of her niece, Miss Emma Ebbright, Corwin Ave., Thursday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock. She had been ill three weeks suffering from heart trouble.

Miss Hutchison was born in Xenia, February 7, 1842, the daughter of Andrew and Adelia Hutchison. She spent her entire life here with the exception of a short time when she taught school in Adams County and a year she spent at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill. For many years she was a clerk in the Cooper and Hutchison daygoods store, and later the Hutchison and Gibney Co. Her brother, the late Clark Hutchison, was one of the partners in these companies. She was a member of the First U. P. Church having joined when she was a child.

Miss Hutchison was the last of an immediate family of seven children and is survived by the following nieces and nephews: Miss Ebbright, at whose home she died; Mrs. James Hurty and Mrs. Kate Pierson, Columbus, Mo.; Harry Ankeney, Des Moines, Ia.; John Ankeney, Dallas, Tex.; Miss Jennie Hutchison and Arthur Hutchison, Los Angeles, Calif. Funeral services will be held at the home of Miss Ebbright Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock and burial will be made in Woodland Cemetery.

MRS. CLARA B. PIPER

Mrs. Clara B. Piper, wife of E. H. Piper and former Xenian, died at her home, 5712 Baum Blvd., Pittsburgh, Pa., Thursday according to word received here.

Mrs. Piper was born in Cincinnati and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hartwell. She moved to this city when she was sixteen years of age. Her husband, E. H. Piper, with his brother, Joseph A. Piper, Washington D. C., former Xenian, operated a grocery and bakery on W. Main St., many years. The Piper family moved from Xenia to Detroit, Mich., in 1908 and later moved to Pittsburgh in 1918. While here Mr. and Mrs. Piper were active members of Trinity M. E. Church. Besides her husband Mrs. Piper is survived by a son, Albert B. Piper, Detroit, Mich., and a daughter, Miss Lucy H. Piper, Pittsburgh. A grandson, Phillips Nash Piper, a half sister, Mrs. Lucy Hartwell Harding, a half brother, Arthur Hartwell, also survive. A sister, Mrs. Homer Thrall, this city and a half sister Mrs. Frank Drees, preceded her in death.

The remains will be brought to this city for burial and will arrive here Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Funeral services will be held at Woodland Cemetery Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock and burial will be made in Woodland Cemetery.

STEPHEN WILSON

Stephen Wilson, 83, retired farmer, died at his home, 637 S. Detroit St., Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. He had been in failing health two years suffering from a complication of diseases and he gradually declined until his condition became serious in April. Mr. Wilson was born near Eleazer December 5, 1848. His marriage to Miss Mary Devoe took place November 5, 1874 and they spent their entire married life on a farm near Bowersville until they moved to Xenia twelve years ago. He was the last of his immediate family and besides his widow is survived by an adopted son, Robert Wilson, New Jasper, who was reared by the Wilson family since he was a small child.

Funeral services will be held at the home Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and burial will be made in Port William Cemetery.

MUSIC CLUBS WILL APPEAR AS PLANNED

The Muskingum College music clubs will present their concert here as scheduled at the First U. P. Church Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. It was announced Friday following the death of Dr. J. Knox Montgomery, president of Muskingum College, which occurred Wednesday, it was thought that the musical organization might cancel its engagements but word was received here Friday morning that the clubs plan to continue their concert tour.

The concert is for the public, there being no admission charge but a free-will offering will be taken and turned over to the clubs for their traveling expenses. The clubs will present a concert at the Opera House, Clifton, Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

SLIPPERY PIKE IS BLAMED FOR FOUR-CAR ACCIDENT THURSDAY

A stretch of the Dayton-Xenia Pike made slippery by rain and attending traffic congestion created by efforts to extricate one car from a ditch brought about a quadruple auto entanglement in which three machines and a wrecking car, trying to be of assistance, figured early Thursday night.

The fourth car accident, in which no one was hurt seriously, was in reality a succession of three accidents.

Skidding on the highway at a point where the pike was straight but slippery four miles west of Xenia, a sedan overturned on one side in a ditch.

John Baldwin, of the Baldwin Motor Co., this city, went to the assistance of the stricken autoist with a wrecking car. While the sedan was being pulled back on the road, other cars headed toward Dayton passed the wrecking car on the left.

Shortly after the sedan had been righted, another auto, traveling toward Xenia, left the road nearby on the opposite side of the pike, the car skidding after the driver had apparently applied the brakes.

The wrecking car then went to the aid of the second auto. This time it was necessary for Xenia-bound cars to pass on the left, but one auto, driven by an Indiana resident, attempted to pass on the right, collided with the wrecking car and also the one in the ditch.

Damaged to some extent and the mechanism jammed, the wrecking car was driven back to Xenia by Baldwin, who later returned and completed the car-rescuing job.

TALBOT COMPANY OF DAYTON ACQUIRED

CLEVELAND, Dec. 31—Acquisition of the retail security organizations of the N. S. Talbot Co., Dayton investment firm, and the Midland Corporation of Ohio, the latter affiliated with the Midland Bank of Cleveland, today was announced by officials of the McDonald, Callahan-Richards Co., large Cleveland brokerage house. An office of the purchasing concern will be opened in Dayton soon to handle the business of the Talbot company, the announcement said. Horace H. Feight, formerly manager of the bond department of the Union Trust Co., of Dayton, will manage the new Dayton office.

The Talbot concern will retain its business of underwriting, management and development and will have representation on the board of McDonald-Callahan-Richards, it was announced.

EXPECT 55,000 TO SEE ALL-STAR TILT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1—Clear skies with a wintry crisp in the air greeted the all-star east and west football teams here today as they met at Kezar Stadium.

More than 55,000 football fans were waiting for the first game of the season, which will present stars of the Atlantic coast, mid-west and Pacific coast.

Coaches Dick Hanley and Andy Kerr of the east have an eleven forward pass and speed were depended upon by Coaches Dana X. Bible and Percy Lacey of the west team.

The overwhelming odds that had placed the east in favor were somewhat whittled away by the dry turf of the football stadium which will be to the advantage of the speedy west backfield.

Dan Marvill of Northwestern and Bill Morton of Dartmouth were named co-captains of the east team.

Revealing the search for the Cleveland anti-Fascist worker, Cavola declared the man was not sought as a suspect but for questioning regarding any possible information he might have as to the identity of the plotters.

A surprise raid at the man's room last night resulted in the seizure of a revolver and a quantity of Communist literature, police said. The man was absent.

Cavola expressed no fear that further attempts would be made against Count Buzzi-Gradenigo and said no guard would be posted at either the consul's downtown hotel-apartment residence or the consulate offices.

TWENTY MILES OF ROADS IMPROVED

An estimated total of twenty miles of township roads in Greene County received surface treatment and were otherwise improved for travel during 1931. It is revealed by A. E. Boan, president of the Board of County Commissioners.

The road repair program during the year extended, the commissioner reported, to every township in the county except Xenia Twp.

County Commissioners and township trustees cooperated in each local road improvement project, sharing the expense on a fifty-fifty basis. It is believed by Commissioner Boan that all country roads in the county are at present in good condition. The entire cost of the road repair work to boards of township trustees was placed at about $20,000 in the commissioner's estimate.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The rich man's wealth is his strong city: the destruction of the poor is their poverty.—Proverbs, x, 15.

THE NEW YEAR

Christmas is a hurdle. Once over it, a New Year approaches. With what greeting? "I can't hate him," a man said of another; "I don't even know him." One can't hate a year until one knows it. The best thing to do is to welcome it, with a feeling that understanding will lead to appreciation—and, possibly, to affection for it.

Witness a phenomenon of everyday life and intercourse. We pass scores of people on the street every day. They don't register; or if they do, unfavorably or indifferently or skeptically. Get to know them, however—get an insight into their lives, their cares, their worries, their loves, their wives, their troubles—and you like them—or you don't. At any rate you know them. The danger of a false prejudgment has passed.

Spread this idea a little further afield. Admit a little of our own fallibility. Give the other chap the benefit of the doubt. Give the industrial leaders who are trying to work a way out of the present impasse, a helping word. Give the unemployed, who are standing up manfully under a trying condition that was not of their invitation, as large a consideration as possible.

The coming year will be for us, what we ourselves make it. That sounds platitudinous: it is—and commonplace, as well; but it takes a turn of the year to remind us of its eternal verity. The sweetness of life is in the manner of living. Allow this thought to penetrate beneath the skin: We have pulled through a hard twelve months. Another year is ahead of us. Whether it will be easy or hard will depend very largely upon the attitude of mind in which it is received.

As for ourselves, we intend to step into it, without fear or favor. We await its coming with a disposition to discover the best there is in it: to place, as the King concludes his address to Parliament, the most favorable construction upon its activities.

IN MANCHURIA

The situation in Manchuria resulting from Japan's pacification methods has naturally disturbed the orderly processes of trade and commerce. American merchants doing business in the theater of operations have not escaped embarrassment, any more than merchants of other countries have. A Tokio dispatch states that the American Ambassador has filed with the Japanese Government a communication on their behalf, which expresses the concern of the United States over the "open door."

The attitude of the Governments of the United States and Japan toward their respective interests and activities in China was stated in the Ishihara-Lansing Agreement of 1917, as follows:

"The Governments of the United States and Japan recognize that territorial propinquity creates special relations between countries, and, consequently, the Government of the United States recognizes that Japan has special interests in China, particularly in the part to which her possessions are contiguous.

"The territorial sovereignty of China, nevertheless, remains unimpaired and the Government of the United States has every confidence in the repeated assurances of the Imperial Japanese Government that while geographical position gives Japan such special interests, they have no desire to discriminate against the trade of other nations or to disregard the commercial rights heretofore granted by China in treaties with other powers.

"The governments of the United States and Japan deny that they have any purpose to infringe in any way the independence or territorial integrity of China and they declare, furthermore, that they always adhere to the principle of the so-called 'Open Door' or equal opportunity for commerce among all nations."

Although this "agreement" was formally abrogated in 1923, after the conclusion of the Nine-Power Treaty at the Washington Conference of 1921-22, substantially the same understanding represented by the agreement was written into the Treaty. Consequently this statement of policy may still be taken as a fair rendition of the realities of American and Japanese intercourse in Manchuria. Japan is still bound by it.

Sometimes armies are followed by adventurers, anxious to pick up an honest dollar at the expense of resident merchants. Sometimes the consequences of military necessity have the appearance of deliberate interference with trade. If that is all that has happened in Manchuria, Japan can argue that it might happen anywhere under similar circumstances: if the "Open Door" is being closed, that's another matter.

It will be of absolutely no use for you to resolve on Jan. 1 that you will not spend so much money next Christmas, because you will; and the better thing to do, will be to start a Christmas savings account.

A late report says that Reno has gone flat so far as its principal industry is concerned, and that divorces show a falling off everywhere. Is the country sobering down?

Because Dec. 25 has come and gone, it is not necessary to lay the Christmas spirit on the shelf. It is a good thing to have around all the time.

Compulsory Insurance Best Form

By ROBERT F. WAGNER

U. S. Senator from New York
(Robert Ferdinand Wagner was born at Nastatten, Germany, June 8, 1877. He was brought to the United States during his childhood and was graduated from the College of the City of New York and New York Law School. He practiced law in New York City. In 1904 he was elected to the New York state assembly, served four years and then went to the state senate for ten years. He was lieutenant-governor of New York in 1914. From 1919 to 1926 he was a justice of the supreme court of New York. He resigned in the latter year and was elected to the U. S. senate. He is a Democrat. His home is in New York City.)

The time has come for us, as civilized men and women, to abandon the breadline and to reject the handout as the solution of the problem of unemployment.

It is universally recognized that the obligation rests upon society to make sure that the unemployed do not go cold and hungry. The alternative is between charity and unemployment insurance or reserves. When I weigh the effect of charity upon character and morale, I have no hesitation in making my choice in favor of insurance.

Compulsory insurance should provide incentives for the stabilization of employment and should protect the mobility of the worker and his freedom of action.

The individual company system, in which benefits depended upon time of employment in a particular establishment and where benefits were forfeited with loss of employment, had the tendency to fasten the employee to his job and to destroy his willingness to change his employment even where it would be conducive to his self-improvement.

The advantage of having unemployment insurance statewide and nationwide is that it can be arranged to have the benefits follow the worker from job to job.

If there is danger to the labor movement in a system of unemployment insurance, it arises out of the system of voluntary company reserves which reduces the employee's quitting power and weakens his bargaining power. An established system of compulsory unemployment insurance would give the labor unions a real stake in the management of the business.

An object to see that it was administered in the interest of justice and fair play.

MY NEW YORK

By JAMES ASWELL

NEW YORK. — A novel idea was voiced by George Martin, crack speechmaker for the N. B. C. network, the other evening between broadcasts. He is a connoisseur of beards, believing that chin foliage has altered history, sainted sinners and impressed posterity with the dignity and wisdom of clowns.

"If Calvin Coolidge had worn whiskers he'd have gone down the ages as one of the world's greatest sages," George contended. "A man who can keep his mouth shut and his chin embellished with a handsome growth of shrubbery is the irresistible combination for the big-shot complex among the populace."

"And what would George Bernard Shaw be like without his lovely white chin drapes? Very likely he wouldn't have been G. B. S. at all, but some other guy with the same name. When I think of him I see his whiskers first and then connect up with his works. With a nude jaw he might very well have been an ardent capitalist."

"The longer Joseph Conrad's black beard grew, the greater was his acclaim. And Charles Evans Hughes unquestionably polled many a vote and rated many a post of dignity on the strength of his magnificent set of soap hazzards—leaving his very great ability out of the picture entirely."

Shall I throw away my razor?

HOP, SKIP AND JUMP

With Christmas over, the toy season is beginning to get under way in earnest. . . . November and December are slack times in the toy-making industry, with February the peak month; then next year's toys are ordered, designed, planned in quantity and quality. One of the big toy-makers told me the other day that his firm was getting out a picture-book on locomotives and that he had written to the New York Central Railroad, asking several questions about the design of the big engines. . . . They replied with a complete set of blue prints detailing the construction of one of the steel giants down to the last bolt. . . . So complicatedly technical that nobody in the toy firm could make head or tail of it!

I am told Corinne Griffith has been approached several times to make a talkie, but no will do because she is happily married and living quietly in New Orleans. . . . Peggy Hopkins Joyce is startling the sleepy-time places by appearing without a trace of make-up you wouldn't think so, but the lack becomes her. . . . Cute Bobbe Arnst was the first girl I saw try it on Broadway—three years ago. . . .

There is a new tendency in radio to sign only those performers who have possibilities as stage and vaudeville performers and then build them up into big names. . . . And the day of the crooner appears slated soon for its inevitable twilight, if the omens mean anything. Broadcasts of songs kidding the sweet-and-dreamy boys may have helped. . . . Watch the rise of Peggy Keenan (whose husband was the famous Frank of stage fame) and her partner, lovely little Sondra Phillips, both just signed to a fat N. B. C. contract. . . . Their piano playing has a quality of sex appeal, on a high plane, that crooners' voices may not attain.

YOUNG MEN'S MECCA

During the last year I have encountered fewer rosy-cheeked youngsters fresh from graduation exercises. Maybe that's because I'm growing older, but inasmuch as their former haunts are deserted I grow to suspect that New York does not offer the same glittering promise to the college hopefuls as once was the case.

THE LAMPLIGHTER

McFadden Continues Fight Single-Handed For Probe Of Debt Negotiations

WASHINGTON.—Say whatever else about him folk may, Representative Louis T. McFadden of Canton (Pa.) is putting up, against almost unbelievable odds, a single-handed fight unprecedented in congressional history.

It is so extraordinary a performance as to be difficult to account for rationally.

Probably no one will need to be reminded that McFadden is the lawmaker who accused President Hoover of "selling out" the country when he granted his war debt moratorium.

He likewise surely will be recalled as having declared that this suspension of European repayments to Uncle Sam, while at the expense of the American public generally, is to the particular advantage of American bankers who have loaned money abroad since the armistice.

The double-barrelled character of this charge was such as to arouse the violent indignation alike of enormous political and of equally formidable financial forces, without creating for the Pennsylvania an uncompensatingly friendly alignment to stand back of him.

Even Republicans who do not like the president were horrified at McFadden's attack on him, as damaging to the party.

Democrats were, and still are, afraid to support the indictment's author, lest he fail to make good his accusation. Besides, high finance has friends in Democratic as well as in G. O. P. managerial circles.

Progressive insurgents from both old-line groups are suspicious of McFadden, having already deemed him an ultra-standpatter.

A standpatter, indeed, the Pennsylvania has been—but not invariably a very amenable one to the voice of standpat authority.

Perhaps this in part explains the present situation. A man of exceptional ability, during 10 years as chairman of the house of representatives' powerful committee on banking and currency, the Keystone State congressman has seen numerous instances of what he considers short sightedness and crass stupidity among financiers of vast reputation.

Seeing them, it has been his custom to comment on them with more freedom and pungency than tact.

Commentators suggest it as a possibility that resentment bred thus may have been responsible for the failure of big money's custodians to come to the rescue of enterprises with which McFadden himself has been associated—enterprises which have been in undisputed straits in the last year or two.

It is as a corollary of this suggestion that the same commentators are wondering whether counter-resentment at big money's indifference to his interests' difficulties may not have had its share in inspiring the Pennsylvania's denunciation of the White House and international banking, in connection with the moratorium.

Regardless of his motive, there can be no question as to Representative McFadden's courage or of the vigor with which he continues to follow up his offensive—offensive which those against whom it is directed seem curiously hesitant to meet in a face-to-face encounter according to parliamentary rules.

His demand for an investigation, that he may offer proofs which he says he possesses, in substantiation of his charges, is strangely ignored. He has been notified, it is true, that his recommendations of appointees to postmasterships in his congressional district no longer will be regarded. "For obvious reasons," as expressed by Presidential Private Secretary Walter H. Newton, he has been dropped from the list of eligibles for social invitations to the White House. Early as it is, preparations already are afoot for a furious campaign to prevent his renomination at Pennsylvania's April primaries.

McFadden, on the other hand, is far from having subsided.

Finding congressional publicity inadequate, he has turned now to the radio, beginning with a broadcast raking his fellow Pennsylvanian, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon over the coals, for delay (so the representative asserts) in his "immediate duty" to collect "practically a billion" of unpaid taxes.

How badly orthodox Republicanism wants to retire him from public life may be judged from the enthusiastic reception it has given to announcement of Mrs. Gifford Pinchot's candidacy against him at the spring primaries.

Budgets For The Entire Family

By MRS. MARY MORTON

Newlyweds on $300 a Month

Suppose you are newlyweds and you have a monthly salary of $300. You should save out of that the equivalent of $65 a month—as much as some young couples have to live on. Your budget should read approximately as follows—and it will, if you're wise.

Savings .....	$65.00
Food .....	40.00
Shelter .....	70.00
Clothing .....	40.00
Operating .....	30.00
Advancement .....	55.00
Total .....	$300.00

Your savings should not only include a savings account at the bank from which you can draw such expenses as insurance premiums, taxes, dentist's bills and clothing, but it insures you against worry for those unexpected demands on the pocketbook, to which every family is subject.

If you get into the habit of keeping an accurate account of your expenditures and savings during the first years of your married life, you are much less likely to drop it and be careless in managing your salary later when family cares have multiplied.

Persistence Necessary

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The overweight is frequently found to be more striking in the overweight than in the normal weight because, there being more tissue in the overweight body, water retention is accomplished by all parts and more water is retained in the heavier body. Thus in one person, when the food intake was reduced nearly half, there was no loss of weight for ten days; then suddenly the water retention stopped and weight loss was considerable in a few days.

The practical lesson from this is that the person who is dieting to reduce weight must not become discouraged if no results are obtained for the first two weeks. Many persons have told me: "Oh! I tried to diet but I only lost five pounds and then not a notch a pound for a week. So I quit. I'm just naturally fat."

Nobody, according to this report of Dr. Newburgh's, is just naturally fat. Anybody can reduce who wants to badly. It is possible, however, that the report does not apply to every case of overweight. I am convinced that the weight is to a certain extent controlled by other factors than food intake alone. At certain periods of life, for instance, with no change whatever in the diet, the weight suddenly goes up. But it is certainly true that middle-aged people, in general, eat more than they need. "The primitive instinct (appetite)," says Dr. Newburgh, "is no longer obeyed or it has been persistently disregarded so long that it has become dulled and notifies its host too late that the body needs have been satisfied."

There is one very interesting and valuable observation which resulted from these tests. When a person is placed on a restricted diet he does not lose weight for several days on account of the water retained.

Small Income Goes Far

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I have just finished reading the letter you received from Miss C. L. and your answer. In regard to the young man's income of $100 per month I wish to say that I don't see why it would not be sufficient for the two of them at present."

"My husband's income is also $100 per month, and we have managed well during the four months we have been married. In addition to our regular monthly expenses we have paid quite large premiums on life insurance, made monthly payments on a lot, and have completely paid for a 66-piece set of silverware guaranteed for 50 years. We have also saved a small amount and are planning on buying a radio next week. We also have an automobile."

"We have rented a small house, consisting of three rooms, a bath and a sleeping porch about four blocks from my husband's work, and as he works inside he enjoys walking to and from work."

"Of course, with better times my husband's income will increase, which helps to keep up our spirits."

"I see no reason why, unless this young man's income is liable to decrease, they could not be happy on $100 per month. It takes a little management and co-operation on the part of both to get along, but this is necessary even with a larger income."

MRS. C. C.
Thank you so much, dear, for your nice letter. It will be cheering news for many young people to hear that you manage so well. I should like to know just how you do it, how much you pay for rent, how much for food, etc. High rents and having to pay transportation to and from work often make the problem of the small income harder.

Use Starch To Replace Milk

By GLADYS GLAD

Poppaea, who was not only the wife of Nero, but also the current knockout of his era, certainly thought mightily highly of milk baths. In fact, she considered them so necessary for preserving her beauty that when she traveled, she always took a train of 50 asses with her, so that she could bathe daily in their milk.

"In this day and age, however, a lass receives her allotment of milk at her front doorstep in bottled form each a. m. And for her, the daily indulgence in real milk baths would, I'm afraid, prove rather a severe strain on her poor old bankroll."

However, there is a substitute for the real milk bath famous by Poppaea in which the Modern Miss can indulge without any great expense to herself—and that is the starch bath. In this bath, the ordinary starch that is used in laundering is employed. It gives the water a delightfully luxuriant, milky texture, and helps no end in alleviating that dry, tight feeling of the skin so common during the cold winter months.

Cold air tends to close the pores of the skin, and lessen the activities of the oil and perspiratory glands. As a result, some skins fail to receive sufficient natural lubrication to keep them smooth and supple during the winter. And plain soap and water baths tend to leave such skins feeling tight and dry.

The starch bath, however, is most effective for keeping the skin soft and pliable during cold weather. A warm, cleansing bath should be taken first. Then the tub should be emptied, and refilled with clear, tepid water. Hot water should not be used. Three cups of the plain starch should be added to this clear, fresh water, and stirred thoroughly. Then the body should be rinsed well in the starchy water.

In more extreme cases of dryness of the skin, of course, the starch baths would probably not be sufficiently remedial. Hot oil baths or cold cream baths would be necessary to supply the abnormal deficiency in lubrication. But ordinarily the starch baths should prove most effective in keeping the skin soft, smooth and supple during the winter months.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES
Cocoa Butter
Miss T.: Cocoa butter may be purchased in cake form in any well-stocked drug store. Warm it to an oil before you apply it.

Reducing
Renee: The reducing course in my booklet on "The New Figure" is indeed guaranteed to take off eight to ten pounds in two weeks. Moreover, to my knowledge, it is one of the healthiest reducing routines in existence.

Cosmetics
Jean: I think that a soft peach shade of powder, soft orange rouge, and light lipstick would blend harmoniously with your coloring.

Bleach
Mrs. B.: If your face is very dry and sensitive, pat a generous quantity of cold cream into the skin after applying the bleach.

Cod Liver Oil
Leone: Cod liver oil or any of its emulsions are all equally effective in building up the body. The nutrient should be taken daily.

Brown Spots
Mrs. M. D.: For eradicating brown spots, so-called "liver spots," use a solution of hyposulphite of soda and water, one part of the chemical to eight parts of water.

Editor's Note: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlet on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her care of this paper, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope and ten cents in coin for each, to cover cost of printing and handling. For her article on "Care of the Feet and Nails" and "Care of the Face and Legs," two cents in coin for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope are required. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The rich man's wealth is his strong city: the destruction of the poor is their poverty.—Proverbs, x, 15.

THE NEW YEAR

Christmas is a hurdle. Once over it, a New Year approaches. With what greeting? "I can't hate him," a man said of another; "I don't even know him." One can't hate a year until one knows it. The best thing to do is to welcome it, with a feeling that understanding will lead to appreciation—and, possibly, to affection for it.

Witness a phenomenon of everyday life and intercourse. We pass scores of people on the street every day. They don't register; or if they do, unfavorably or indifferently or skeptically. Get to know them, however—get an insight into their lives, their cares, their worries, their loves, their wives, their troubles—and you like them—or you don't. At any rate you know them. The danger of a false judgment has passed.

Spread this idea a little further afield. Admit a little of our own fallibility. Give the other chap the benefit of the doubt. Give the industrial leaders who are trying to work a way out of the present impasse, a helping word. Give the unemployed, who are standing up manfully under a trying condition that was not of their invitation, as large a consideration as possible.

The coming year will be for us, what we ourselves make it. That sounds platitudinous: it is—and commonplace, as well; but it takes a turn of the year to remind us of its eternal verity. The sweetness of life is in the manner of living. Allow this thought to penetrate beneath the skin: We have pulled through a hard twelve months. Another year is ahead of us. Whether it will be easy or hard will depend very largely upon the attitude of mind in which it is received.

As for ourselves, we intend to step into it, without fear or favor. We await its coming with a disposition to discover the best there is in it: to place, as the King concludes his address to Parliament, the most favorable construction upon its activities.

IN MANCHURIA

The situation in Manchuria resulting from Japan's pacification methods has naturally disturbed the orderly processes of trade and commerce. American merchants doing business in the theater of operations have not escaped embarrassment, any more than merchants of other countries have. A Tokyo dispatch states that the American Ambassador has filed with the Japanese Government a communication on their behalf, which expresses the concern of the United States over the "open door."

The attitude of the Governments of the United States and Japan toward their respective interests and activities in China was stated in the Ishihara-Lansing Agreement of 1917, as follows:

"The Governments of the United States and Japan recognize that territorial propinquity creates special relations between countries, and, consequently, the Government of the United States recognizes that Japan has special interests in China, particularly in the part to which her possessions are contiguous.

"The territorial sovereignty of China, nevertheless, remains unimpaired and the Government of the United States has every confidence in the repeated assurances of the Imperial Japanese Government that while geographical position gives Japan special interests, they have no desire to discriminate against the trade of other nations or to disregard the commercial rights heretofore granted by China in treaties with other powers.

"The governments of the United States and Japan deny that they have any purpose to infringe in any way the independence or territorial integrity of China and they declare, furthermore, that they always adhere to the principle of the so-called 'Open Door' or equal opportunity for commerce an industry in China."

Although this "agreement" was formally abrogated in 1923, after the conclusion of the Nine-Power Treaty at the Washington Conference of 1921-22, substantially the same understanding represented by the agreement was written into the Treaty. Consequently this statement of policy may still be taken as a fair rendition of the realities of American and Japanese intercourse in Manchuria. Japan is still bound by it.

Sometimes armies are followed by adventurers, anxious to pick up an honest dollar at the expense of resident merchants. Sometimes the consequences of military necessity have the appearance of deliberate interference with trade. If that is all that has happened in Manchuria, Japan can argue that it might happen anywhere under similar circumstances: If the "Open Door" is being closed, that's another matter.

It will be of absolutely no use for you to resolve on Jan. 1 that you will not spend so much money next Christmas, because you will; and the better thing to do, will be to start a Christmas savings account.

A late report says that Reno has gone flat so far as its principal industry is concerned, and that divorces show a falling off everywhere. Is the country sobering down?

Because Dec. 25 has come and gone, it is not necessary to lay the Christmas spirit on the shelf. It is a good thing to have around all the time.

Compulsory Insurance Best Form

By ROBERT F. WAGNER
U. S. Senator from New York
(Robert Ferdinand Wagner was born at Nastatten, Germany, June 8, 1877. He was brought to the United States during his childhood and was graduated from the College of the City of New York and New York Law School. He practiced law in New York City. In 1904 he was elected to the New York state assembly, served four years and then went to the state senate for ten years. He was lieutenant-governor of New York in 1914. From 1919 to 1926 he was a justice of the supreme court of New York. He resigned in the latter year and was elected to the U. S. senate. He is a Democrat. His home is in New York City.)

The time has come for us, as civilized men and women, to abandon the headline and to reject the handout as the solution of the problem of unemployment.

It is universally recognized that the obligation rests upon society to make sure that the unemployed do not go cold and hungry. The alternative is between charity and unemployment insurance or reserves. When I weigh the effect of charity upon character and morale, I have no hesitation in making my choice in favor of insurance.

Compulsory insurance should provide incentives for the stabilization of employment and should protect the mobility of the worker and his freedom of action.

The individual company system, in which benefits depended upon time of employment in a particular establishment and where benefits were forfeited with loss of employment, had the tendency to fasten the employee to his job and to destroy his willingness to change his employment even where it would be conducive to his self-improvement.

The advantage of having unemployment insurance statewide and nationwide is that it can be arranged to have the benefits follow the worker from job to job.

If there is danger to the labor movement in a system of unemployment insurance, it arises out of the system of voluntary company reserves which reduces the employee's quitting power and weakens his bargaining power. An established system of compulsory unemployment insurance would give the labor union a real stake in the management of the business, an object to see that it was administered in the interest of justice and fair play.

NEW YORK

By JAMES ASWELL

NEW YORK. — A novel idea was voiced by George Martin, crack speechmaker for the N. B. C. network, the other evening between broadcasts. He is a connoisseur of beards, believing that chin foliage has altered history, sainted sinners and impressed posterity with the dignity and wisdom of clowns. "If Calvin Coolidge had worn whiskers he'd have gone down the ages as one of the world's greatest sages," George contended. "A man who can keep his mouth shut and his chin embellished with a handsome growth of shrubbery is the irresistible combination for the big-shot complex among the populace."

"And what would George Bernard Shaw be like without his lovely white chin drapes? Very likely he wouldn't have been G. B. S. at all, but some other guy with the same name. When I think of him I see his whiskers first and then connect up with his works. With a nude jaw he might very well have been an ardent capitalist."

"The longer Joseph Conrad's black beard grew, the greater was his acclaim. And Charles Evans Hughes unquestionably polled many a vote and rated many a post of dignity on the strength of his magnificent set of soap hazzards—leaving his very great ability out of the picture entirely."

Shall I throw away my razor?

HOP, SKIP AND JUMP

With Christmas over, the toy season is beginning to get under way in earnest. . . . November and December are slack times in the plaything industry, with February the peak month; then next Yule's toys are ordered, designed, planned in quantity and quality. . . . One of the big toy-makers told me the other day that his firm was getting out a picture-book on locomotives and that he had written to the New York Central Railroad, asking several questions about the design of the big engines. . . . They replied with a complete set of blue prints detailing the construction of one of the steel giants down to the last bolt. . . . So completely technical that nobody in the toy firm could make head or tail of it!

I am told Corinne Griffith has been approached several times to make a talk—but no will do because she is happily married and living quietly in New Orleans. . . . Peggy Hopkins Joyce is startling the sleepy-time places by appearing without a trace of make-up; you wouldn't think so, but the lack becomes her. . . . Cute Bobbe Arnst was the first girl I saw try it on Broadway—three years ago. . . .

There is a new tendency in radio—to sign only those performers who have possibilities as stage and vaudeville performers and then build them up into big names. . . . And the day of the crooner appears slated soon for its inevitable twilight, if the omens mean anything. Broadcasts of songs kidding the sweet-and-dreamy boys may have helped. . . . Watch the rise of Peggy Keenan (whose husband was the famous Frank of stage fame) and her partner, lovely little Sondra Phillips, both just signed to a N. B. C. contract. . . . Their piano playing has a quality of sex appeal, on a high plane, that crooners' voices may not attain.

THE LAMPLIGHTER

McFadden Continues Fight Single-Handed For Probe Of Debt Negotiations

WASHINGTON.—Say whatever else about him folk may, Representative Louis T. McFadden of Canton (Pa.) is putting up, against almost unbelievable odds, a single-handed fight unprecedented in congressional history.

It is so extraordinary a performance as to be difficult to account for rationally. . . . Probably no one will need to be reminded that McFadden is the lawmaker who accused President Hoover of "selling out" the country when he granted his war debt moratorium.

He likewise surely will be recalled as having declared that this suggestion of European repayments to Uncle Sam while at the expense of the American public generally, is to the particular advantage of American bankers who have loaned money abroad since the armistice.

The double-barreled character of this charge was such as to arouse the indignation of the House of Representatives. Besides, the enormity of political and of equally formidable financial forces, without creating for the Pennsylvania any compensatingly friendly alignment to stand back of him.

Even Republicans who do not like the president were horrified at McFadden's attack on him, as damaging to the party.

Democrats were, and still are, afraid to support the indictment, lest he fail to make good his accusation. Besides, high finance has friends in Democratic as well as in G. O. P. managerial circles.

Progressive insurgents from both old-line groups are suspicious of McFadden, having always deemed him an ultra-standpatter.

A standpatter, indeed, the Pennsylvania has been—but not invariably a very amenable one to the voice of standpat authority.

Perhaps this in part explains the present situation.

A man of exceptional ability, during 10 years as chairman of the house of representatives' powerful committee on banking and currency, the Keystone State congressman has seen numerous instances of what he considered short sightedness and crass stupidity.

ALL of US

ity among financiers of vast reputation.

Seeing them, it has been his custom to comment on them with more freedom and pungency than tact.

Commentators suggest it as a possibility that resentments bred thus may have been responsible for the failure of big money's custodians to come to the rescue of enterprises with which McFadden himself has been associated—enterprises which have been in undisputed straits in the last year or two.

It is as a corollary of this suggestion that the same commentators are wondering whether counter-resentment at big money's indifference to his interests' difficulties may not have had its share in inspiring the Pennsylvania's denunciation of the White House and international banking, in connection with the moratorium.

Regardless of his motive, there can be no question as to Representative McFadden's courage or of the vigor with which he continues to follow up his offensive—an offensive which those against whom it is directed seem curiously hesitant to meet in a toe-to-toe encounter according to parliamentary rules.

His demand for an investigation, that he may offer proofs which he says he possesses, in substantiation of his charges, is strangely ignored.

He has been notified, it is true, that his recommendations of appointees to postmasterships in his congressional district no longer will be regarded. "For obvious reasons," as expressed by Presidential Private Secretary Walter H. Newton, he has been dropped from the list of eligibles for social invitations to the White House. Early as it is, preparations already are afoot for a furious campaign to prevent his renomination at Pennsylvania's April primaries.

His accusations, however, have gone unanswered, except for a brief initial outburst of strong language—and even this the G. O. P. managers hastily hushed up under the threat of Representative John dainful look, or one of those looks that go right through me like an X-ray machine. She goes right on smoking and I go right outside and where it's allowed.

But I don't understand, I like women; all the men I know like them; but I can't figure it out—why the women smoke when a sign says not to and men almost always obey those signs. Are the women—I mean the ones who smoke under such circumstances—still uncivilized? Are they natural rebels? Are the men too civilized?

Or are they poor, beaten, doctored creatures who think they must obey EVERY law? Is the woman a heroine? Is the man a poor worm?

Or have the men been out in the world so long that they just naturally obey the little regulations without a second thought? And do the women look upon these forbidden signs as personal insults that they must not let pass unchallenged?

I wish I knew the answers. It might not do me much good. I'd still, like other men, go my way obeying all the little signs and respectfully admiring the young ladies who ignore them.

I'd still be a poor worm in their eyes—but I WOULD like to know, exactly a "dirty look." It's a dis-

E. Rankin, a Mississippi Democrat, to join the Pennsylvania in pressing for an inquiry otherwise.

McFadden, on the other hand, is far from having subsided.

Finding congressional publicity inadequate, he has turned now to the radio, beginning with a broadcast, raking his fellow Pennsylvanian, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon over the coals, for delay (so the representative asserts) in his "immediate duty" to collect "practically a billion" of unpaid taxes.

How badly orthodox Republicanism wants to retire him from public life may be judged from the enthusiastic reception it has given to announcement of Mrs. Clifford Pinchot's candidacy against him at the spring primaries.

Budgets For The Entire Family

By MRS. MARY MORTON

Newlyweds on $500 a Month

Suppose you are newlyweds and you have a monthly salary of $300. You should save out of that the equivalent of $65 a month—as much as some young couples have to live on. Your budget should read approximately as follows—and it will, if you're wise.

Savings .....	$ 65.00
Food .....	40.00
Shelter .....	70.00
Clothing .....	40.00
Operating .....	30.00
Advancement .....	55.00
Total .....	$300.00

Your savings should not only include a savings account at the bank from which you can draw such expenses as insurance premiums, taxes, dentist's bills and clothing, but it insures you against worry for those unexpected demands on the pocketbook, to which every family is subject.

If you get into the habit of keeping an accurate account of your expenditures and savings during the first years of your married life, you are much less likely to drop it and be careless in managing your salary later when family cares have multiplied.

Persistence Necessary

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The overweight is frequently heard to complain that he (or quite as frequently, she) barely eats enough to keep alive. And yet does not lose weight. Many of the heavy ones tell you with tears in their eyes, that they eat less than the living skeletons.

Good scientific opinion has been found to back this idea. The ductless glands have been considered to have some control over the weight of the body, and in certain cases of their derangement to cause the body to function at a heavier weight even when the intake of food has been greatly restricted.

Even in cases where there is no disease of the ductless glands, experiments have seemed to show that many overweight people carried on the life processes at a lower rate than others and stored food more rapidly instead of burning it. The famous experiments of Sirous indicate that both fat and lean people had a somewhat different physiology than those of normal weight. They maintained their heaviness, or thinness, no matter how little or how much they ate.

But all these ideas are swept aside in the latest word on the subject by Dr. L. H. Newburgh of Ann Arbor, who has made some carefully controlled tests. He finds that all obesity is simple obesity. All fat people act like other people and lose weight proportionately to the loss of food intake.

There is one very interesting and valuable observation which resulted from these tests. When a person is placed on a restricted diet he must not lose weight for several days on account of the water retention by the body. This also appears to be more striking in the overweight than in the normal weight because, there being more tissue in the overweight body, water retention is accomplished by all parts and more water is retained in the heavier body. Thus in one person, when the food intake was reduced nearly half, there was no loss of weight for ten days; then suddenly the water retention stopped and weight loss was considerable in a few days.

The practical lesson from this is that the person who is dieting to reduce weight must not become discouraged if no results are obtained for the first two weeks. Many persons have told me: "Oh! I tried to diet, but I only lost five pounds and then not another pound for a week. So I quit. I'm just naturally fat."

Nobody, according to this report of Dr. Newburgh's, is just naturally fat. Anybody can reduce who wants to badly.

It is possible, however, that the report does not apply to every case of overweight. I am convinced that the weight is to a certain extent controlled by other factors than food intake alone. At certain periods of life, for instance, with no change whatever in the diet, the weight suddenly goes up. But it is certainly true that middle-aged people, in general, eat more than they need. "The primitive instinct (appetite)," says Dr. Newburgh, "is no longer obeyed or it has been persistently disregarded so long that it has become dulled and notifies its host too late that the body needs have been satisfied."

"Of course, with better times my husband's income will increase, which helps to keep up our spirits. I see no reason why, unless this young man's income is liable to decrease, they could not be happy on $100 per month. It takes a little management and co-operation on the part of both to get along, but this is necessary even with a larger income.

MRS. C. C.
Thank you so much, dear, for your nice letter. It will be cheering news for many young people to hear that you manage so well. I should like to know just how you do it, how much you pay for rent, how much for food, etc. There are rents and having to pay transportation to and from work often make the problem of the small income harder.

SHORTY: Not being acquainted with your boy friend and his actions, I am sure I can't tell you why he hasn't been to see you for the last four weeks. Maybe there is another girl in his life. Or maybe he has just been busy. Better concentrate on some other boy, I think.

Leone: Cod liver oil or any of its emulsions are all equally effective in building up the body. The nutrient should be taken daily.

Brown Spots

Mrs. M. D.: For eradicating brown spots, so-called "liver spots," use a solution of hyposulphite of soda and water, one part of the chemical to eight parts of water.

Editor's Note: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlet on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her care of this paper, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope and ten cents in coin for each, to cover cost of printing and handling. For her article on "Care of the Hands and Nails" and "Care of the Feet and Legs," two cents in coin for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope are required. Personal questions, beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

The 1932 football season will be ushered in Friday afternoon (4:45 p. m. Xenia time over radio) when the undefeated Tulane eleven meets the great Southern California team in the annual Tournament of Roses classic on the Pacific coast.

Paradoxical as it seems, the 1931 mythical football championship of these United States will be at stake, although the contest will be played on the first day of the new year.

Notwithstanding "Tink" Rafter's confident prediction of a Tulane victory, in this humble department's opinion the outcome of the game is a toss-up as to whether the Trojans will win by forty points or twenty. Perhaps the difference may not be nearly so great as that, but whatever the difference is, it should certainly be in California's favor by every known and unknown method of calculation.

Correct us if we are wrong, but is our belief that it may be a Tournament of Roses for the Trojans, but it will prove a Tournament of Thorns for the Southern team.

Regardless of whether the game proves good, bad or indifferent, the affair is an assured financial success in advance. With 70,000 tickets already reserved, it is expected upward of 80,500 fans will be in at the death-Tulane's death (?)

In a match heralded as bringing to wrestling the first undisputed heavyweight championship in two years, Joe Stecher, twice holder of the world's heavyweight mat crown, and John Pesek, famed tigerman, will come to grips in Columbus at the million dollar Columbus Auditorium New Year's night.

All matches between prominent wrestlers in the heavy ranks are generally billed as world's championship affairs, and of course it is claimed for the Stecher-Pesek match that it will "finally clear up the present muddled championship."

Stecher, let it be said, started a comeback a year ago and the famous scissor king has gone undefeated, they say, in more than forty starts against the most prominent men in the over-sized ranks. He has beaten Pesek twice, but in the last four years, they also say, Pesek has been undefeated.

(Jim Londos is also pretty good, too. Fact of the matter is, he is generally recognized as the world's professional heavy title-holder.)

The longest seat sale in sports begins next month. It is the advance offering of pasteboards for the international 500-mile race held at the Indianapolis motor speedway each Memorial Day. Nearly five months before the historic classic, dyed-in-the-wool racing fans begin receiving their seat checks for the big show. Despite a falling off in attendance at other sporting events, auto racing fans are obviously a hardy band of spectators, as is indicated in the largest advance order list for seats in the last four years, even exceeding 1930 when the largest throng in history saw Billy Arnold win.

« Pictorial Review of March of Events of 1931 » »

One day when Old Father Time is in a reminiscent mood he will, no doubt, look back over his brood of year children and rumble in his beard, "I remember when—" As he skims over the life of child 1931 some of the principal events of that period that will occur to him are pictured above. (1) Depicts a tragedy that shook the nation when Knute Rockne, famous football coach of Notre Dame, was dashed to death in a plane on March 31, near Bazaar, Kansas. (2) Wiley Post and Harold Gatty accomplished "the impossible" by flying around the world in eight days and 15 hours, starting and finishing the epic flight at Roosevelt Field, New York. (3) The largest dirigible in the world, the U. S. S. Akron, was successfully launched and made her maiden trip at Akron, Ohio, on September 23. (4) Auguste Piccard and an assistant flew to 50,000 feet into the stratosphere in a sealed ball, on May 27, landing in the Austrian Tyrol eighteen hours after their take-off from Augsburg, Germany. (5) On August 27 the huge German flying boat DO-X came to rest on New York Harbor after completing a flight of 12,000 miles which started in Germany on November 5, 1930. (6) The most impenetrable mystery of the year was the death of Starr Faithfull, beautiful New York society girl, whose body was found on a deserted beach on Long Island. Whether she was the victim of murder, suicide or accident has never been established. (7) The year was remarkable for the number of foreign diplomats who came here to confer with the President. Mr. Hoover is shown in composite with Premier Laval of France and Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy, who discussed international affairs with the Chief Executive at Washington, D. C. (8) The world lost its most brilliant inventive genius in the death of Thomas A. Edison at his home in Orange, N. J., on October 18, at the age of 84. (9) Depicts an event of great importance to the Catholic Church. Pope Pius XI is shown as he delivered the first radio address from the new station built in Vatican City, February 12. (10) Spain built a Republic with the abdication of King Alfonso on April 14. His queen, Victoria, who fled with him, is shown bidding farewell to her courtiers on the French border where she found refuge. (11) A new field of exploration was opened up by Sir Hubert Wilkins, who left Provincetown, Mass., on June 4, on the first leg of the voyage under the Arctic ice in the submarine Nautilus. (12) The world was stirred when Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader, arrived in London on September 12 to attend the Round Table Conference, seeking freedom for India. Gandhi visited the King in Buckingham Palace wearing a loin cloth. (13) The dove of peace was again put to flight when Japanese forces invaded Manchuria. (14) On March 31, a catastrophe overwhelmed Managua, Nicaragua, when an earthquake shook the city to its foundations, killing approximately 2,000 persons and causing property damage estimated at $30,000,000, as well as injuring 10,000 of the population.

CENTRAL RESUMES CAMPAIGN IN HOME GAMES FRIDAY, SATURDAY

Basketball will stage a comeback this week-end when Xenia Central High basketballers, inactive for the last two weeks during the holiday lull, will resume their court campaigning, playing two home games on consecutive nights Friday and Saturday.

With a record of two triumphs and one defeat, the Buccaneer eagles hope to start the new year off right by defeating Columbus West at the local gymnasium Friday night. Cincinnati Withrow will appear here Saturday night, and the contests both evenings will probably be preceded by preliminaries involving Central's junior high quintet.

West High, a new appoint on Central's court schedule, is considered one of the foremost teams in Columbus this season. Xenia quintets have always been able to beat Withrow High in basketball, but victory over the Tigers is anything but certain this year.

Central basketballers resumed practice this week with the return

HOOVER GIVEN FINE ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Elmo Hoover, 19, who confessed ownership of a fifteen-gallon capacity still seized by Sheriff John Baughin and his deputies in a raid on the home of Mrs. Bertha Stethem at Jamestown Wednesday night, was fined $800 and costs by Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Thursday.

The youth, ordered sent to jail in default of payment, pleaded guilty to possessing apparatus intended for the manufacture of liquor.

Mrs. Stethem, on whose premises the still was found, pleaded not guilty to a similar charge. She was released on her own recognizance to await her hearing fixed for 9 a. m. Monday in Municipal Court.

NEW YEAR'S DAY

THE ANCIENT ROMANS CELEBRATED THE BEGINNING OF THE YEAR ON THE 21ST OF DECEMBER, BUT JULIUS CAESAR BY THE ADOPTION OF THE JULIAN CALENDAR POSTPONED IT TO THE FIRST OF JANUARY.

IN THE GREGORIAN CALENDAR NEW YEAR'S DAY OCCURS 12 DAYS EARLIER THAN IN THE JULIAN; THUS IN RUSSIA, GREECE AND COUNTRIES WHERE THE JULIAN CALENDAR IS STILL EMPLOYED, NEW YEAR'S DAY IS CELEBRATED ON THE ENGLISH 13TH OF JANUARY.

THE 25TH OF MARCH WAS THE USUAL DATE AMONG MOST CHRISTIAN PEOPLES IN THE EARLY MEDIEVAL DAYS—in Anglo-Saxon England, the 25TH OF DECEMBER WAS NEW YEAR'S DAY.

JULIUS CAESAR WAS THE FIRST TO MAKE JANUARY 1 THE BEGINNING OF A NEW YEAR.

THE ANCIENT EGYPTIANS, PERSIANS AND PHOENICIANS BEGAN THEIR YEAR AT THE AUTUMNAL EQUINOX SEPT. 21, AND THE GREEKS AT THE WINTER SOLSTICE, DEC. 21—IN 432 B.C. THE LATTER ALTERED THEIR NEW YEAR'S DAY TO THE 21ST OF JUNE.

THE JEWS HAVE ALWAYS RECKONED THEIR CIVIL YEAR FROM THE FIRST DAY OF THE MONTH OF TISHRI, (SEPT. 6-OCT 5) BUT THEIR ECCLESIASTICAL YEAR BEGINS AT THE SPRING EQUINOX (MARCH 21).

IT WAS NOT UNTIL 1752 THAT THE GREGORIAN CALENDAR WAS ADOPTED IN ENGLAND, WITH THE COMMENCEMENT OF THE YEAR SET ON JANUARY 1

Noted Concert Pianist To Give Radio Recital

By MILDRED MASON

ALMA BETSCHER, noted concert pianist and member of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music faculty, will be heard over WLW, in a recital program Sunday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, when she appears as guest artist during a matinee concert.

Miss Betscher, who has appeared with great success as soloist with such organizations as the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra and the Russian Symphony Orchestra, will include in her recital program Sunday Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in G Sharp Minor," "Sherzo in F Sharp Major" by D'Albert; "Etude, D Flat Major," by Liszt and David Glin's interesting composition, "The Scissor Grinder."

Educator to Speak

Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, will be guest speaker in the National Advisory Council on Radio in Education to be broadcast Saturday at 8:30 p. m. Felix Morley, executive secretary of the committee on economic lectures, and Dr. Walter V. Bingham, chairman of the committee of psychology lectures, are to be the other speakers. The program will be broadcast over an NBC network through WSAI, Cincinnati.

Baritone Is Guest

A cast of celebrated stars of the Chicago Civic Opera Co., including Rene Maison and Maria Rajdl, will be heard when the overture at the opening portion of the chapel scene of Wagner's opera, "Die Meistersinger," is broadcast direct from the stage of the opera house in Chicago over an NBC network through station WKCY, Covington, Saturday from 9 to 9:30 p. m. The scene of the opera takes place in Nuremberg, Germany, in the middle of the sixteenth century and the piece is considered one of Wagner's greatest works.

Baritone Is Guest

John Charles Thomas, baritone, who attained musical success first in the United States and later in leading capitals of Europe, will be guest artist in a program to be broadcast over an NBC network through station WSAI Sunday at 5:30 p. m. Mr. Thomas will devote the major part of his program to old familiar airs that have been heard in American homes over a long period of time.

Dr. Cadman on Air

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman will speak on "A New Year's Message" for his address in the service to be broadcast Sunday at 3:30 p. m. over an NBC network. He will be heard through station WSAI, Cincinnati.

Buddy Rogers on Air

Buddy Rogers, noted film star, has deserted the screen to organize and conduct his own orchestra and also sing, over NBC networks it is announced. Rogers has signed a contract placing him under the exclusive management of the NBC Artists Service and it is understood that he and his thirteen piece orchestra will be heard over the air within a few weeks.

Who's Who in Washington

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

GERALD P. NYE

Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota was less than 33 years old when he first appeared in Washington in 1925.

It immediately was evident that he was incandescent with progressive enthusiasm, but he always had lived in a small town and, being young, it is no disparagement of him to say that he was inexperienced.

It's a great game among sophisticated representatives of the "intrusts" to take politically liberal law-makers in hand, as fast as they arrive in the capital and transform them into stanch conservatives.

Nye, they thought, looked as if he would be easy. Finding themselves mistaken, they grew resentful.

Matters went from bad to worse. As the North Dakotan learned, he became outright dangerous to politicians dear to the "intrusts" representatives' hearts. From the stage of mere unobservability he advanced to the rating of a nuisance, and finally to that of a full-fledged menace.

They admit it was in a fit of temporary aberration that they permitted his appointment to the chairmanship of the committee named to investigate 1930's elections to the senate. They were not long in learning their error. Abused like a horse thief for his activities, but as relentless as death, he unquestionably settled half a dozen senatorial campaigns (and not as the "intrusts" desired them settled) by the scandal he uncovered.

It is no small performance to have risen from a poor country boy in 1925 to recognition today as a national peril, to be politically exterminated next year like a rattlesnake, if the "intrusts" can get him.

The girl whose desk was marked "Information" was not convincing in her appearance. Moreover, she looked and acted as if she would not be very generous with what information she did possess.

Marcia smiled. "Good morning."

AUTO IS WRECKED

A wrecked auto which apparently had been struck by a Big Four train early Thursday morning was discovered by a train crew at Osborn. The car had been abandoned and it was thought the driver and possible other occupants had escaped injury. The license number on the machine had been issued to a Dayton resident.

Lipstick Girl A Romance of a Little Beauty

By EDNA ROBB WEBSTER

Author of "DAD'S GIRL," "JORETTA" and "LOVE PREFERRED"

READ THIS FIRST:

Marcia Moyer, in the cosmetics department of the largest store in Mitchellfield, was given the job because of her beauty, but through her ability and interest, advances to buyer. She helps her mother with the five children, but dreams of the day when she can leave home, to see the world and find romance. Ted Stanton, a young mechanic who plans to have his own business some day, has been in love with Marcia all her life, but she does not think of Ted like that, though she is fond of him. The president of a New York cosmetics company, comes to Mitchellfield and notices Marcia's sales methods. She is called to the manager's office where she meets Percy DuMott, who asks her if she would like to travel and demonstrate their products all over the country. It is her big opportunity to escape from the town which no one knows exists except the few thousand people who live there. Mrs. Moyer reluctantly consents to the change for Marcia, and Ted is grieved to lose her, but Marcia makes joyful preparations for her departure. Marcia dines at the hotel with DuMott before he returns to New York. Many parties are given in her honor. On her last evening at home, Ted takes her out to Paradise Inn for dinner and pleads with her not to go away. He takes her to the train the next evening, however, and leaves her with the memory of his first kiss in faraway. Her first night in a Pullman car is the first thrilling experience of her adventure.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

"All ready to go to work?" Mr. Haley asked, pleasantly.

and added, "Miss Moyer to see Mr. Haley."

"Sorry, but Mr. Haley is in conference now," groaned the girl as if she were reciting a formula. "Would anyone else go?"

"Why, I—I don't know anyone else," Marcia hesitated.

The girl inspected her from head to toe, critically. "Was Mr. Haley expecting you?"

"Oh, yes. That is, I had no definite appointment. But Mr. DuMott told me."

"Oh," interrupted Information. "Are you the new demonstrator? Well, why didn't you say so? Just a minute." She inserted a plug at the switchboard. "Tell Mr. Haley the new demonstrator, Miss—er—" she turned toward Marcia languidly.

"Moyer," supplied Marcia.

"Miss Moyer is here. Does he want to see her now?" A pat on the cheek. "Yeah, all right. He will see you now," she turned to Marcia. "First door to the left," and thereby dismissed all responsibility.

Marcia wondered what had happened to the previously mentioned conference, not being accustomed to the evasive form replies of city offices. A pleasant girl met her at the door.

"Miss Moyer? I'm Miss Patton. Mr. Haley will see you now." Marcia liked her, and reflected momentarily that it was obvious why these two girls held their respective positions, with Miss Patton's private secretary salary probably double that of Information's.

Mr. Haley was very friendly. He did not look like a man associated with beauty cosmetics. A ruddy, French-looking man, he was flying from Chicago to St. Louis. "I don't think it was just because he wanted me for a mechanic, either," Ted scribbled on. "He wanted an excuse to drop down on Mitchellfield again. That guy fell twice in one night, what I mean. When he saw Vi, he almost forgot he had an airplane. Now, ain't that something? Our little Vi picked right off the earth by a soaring eagle. He stayed at the Prairie Inn that night and called her up the next day before he left. Said he would be seen' her again."

Marcia, launched into the world, and already feeling the confidence of the buoyant sustaining waves, experienced a moment of vague anxiety for her little sister. Why had things begun to happen so fast just when she had gone away and could not look after Vivian?

PLAN VEGETABLE GARDEN MEETING

Arrangements have been made with the Greene County Farm Bureau Extension Department for some assistance with vegetable gardening for 1932. The Better Homes Committee is announcing the first of a series of meetings to be held January 13 at 1:30 p. m. at the Court House Assembly Room for every one who is to have a vegetable garden next year.

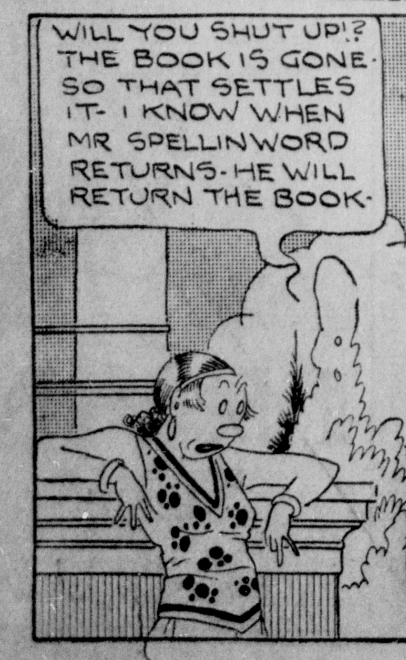

At this meeting, E. R. Lancaster, garden specialist of Ohio State University, will give some suggestions of how the home garden may be made to profit the owner both in foods gained and an economy in expenditure of time, money and energy. Plans for future garden meetings will also be discussed so that the assistance given in the future may be most useful to those who are interested.

Further information may be obtained from the County Extension Office by calling either E. A. Drake, county agricultural agent or Miss Ruth Radford, home demonstration agent.

Lily Gets Picture Part; Little Anita Gets Start

Hollywood's January roll call will find Lily Damita present and accounted for. The dynamic Parisienne has been borrowed by Paramount to play in a song romance called "He Met a French Girl."

Needless to say, Lily has a lead. Though he doesn't use her in many of his own pictures, Samuel Goldwyn naturally keeps a sharp watch on Lily's billing. The story is to be written for the films by George Marion Jr., author of "Sweetie" and will be directed by Frank Tuttle, who did the honors in that col-

the wife of an engineer stationed in the tropics. Richard Wallace will direct. Having furnished Miss Bankhead with three mediocre vehicles, Paramount is exerting every effort to make the fourth time the charm.

Picked as "Miss America" in 1927, Adrienne Dore is catching up with fame a second time as a Warner Brothers player. She has finished the second feminine lead in Dick Barthelmess' picture and now will play a part in "The Ferguson Case". She is believed to be the first "Miss America" to win substantial recognition in Hollywood. Fay Lamphier was there for a while but as a secretary at Paramount. She's in Oakland now.

Kay Francis was born on Friday the 13th.

EVANGELIST OPENS MEETINGS SUNDAY AT BAPTIST CHURCH

"The Cause and Cure of Depression" is the subject chosen by Evangelist Ralph E. Stewart, "Radio Preacher of the South" for his Sunday night sermon at the First Baptist Church at 7:30. In the morning at 11 a. m. he will speak on "Spiritual Life."

These services will inaugurate a two weeks series of meetings to be conducted by the Rev. Mr. Stewart with the Rev. J. R. Linsford, pastor, assisting.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart are in charge of the Southern Evangelistic Association in Atlanta and he is heard regularly on eight radio periods over WSB, the Atlanta Journal Station.

Their most popular radio hour is the "Bright Spot" hour which is broadcast from Atlanta Sunday evenings at 10:45 p. m., central time which has been heard in more than thirty-five states and three provinces of Canada. They will sing many gospel duets which have been enjoyed by their radio friends.

The meetings will be held daily at 7:30 p. m. except Saturday through January 17. The Rev. Mr. Stewart will also give a children's talk each evening preceding his regular sermon to the boys and girls.

Other subjects to be discussed during the series are "Millions Now Living Are Already Dead," "Facts at the Window," "What About Heaven?" "The Man God Tried to Kill," "How to Lick Our Enemies," "Where is God in Times Like These?"

Dec. 1—Mayor James J. Walker of New York City made dramatic speech at San Francisco before Governor Ralph of California, asking pardon for Tom Mooney, convicted as a bomber of the 1916 Preparedness Day Parade in San Francisco.

Dec. 3—Military directorate seized power in San Salvador after deposing President Arturo Araujo and killing several men including a cabinet minister. Vice-President Max Martinez succeeded Araujo.

Dec. 11—The long illness of Julius Rosenberg reached a critical stage today and physicians feared the noted philanthropist and merchant king may live but a few days longer.

REPORT 500 WOMEN TAKING PROJECTS

It is estimated that approximately 500 Greene County women have been interested in the home furnishing projects given in the Farm Bureau extension classes this year.

Each of the twelve townships has had lessons in "Arrangement of Living Room Furniture and Window Curtaining" in some communities assistance has been given in re-caning of chairs.

The "Arrangement of Living Room Furniture" lesson has included principles of design in relation to furniture arrangement as well as convenience for family needs. Window curtaining included making of curtains and drapes, hanging and arrangement of window curtains so that the most pleasing effects might be obtained. Some information on economic buying of curtain materials also was included in the lesson.

Additional information about these lessons may be obtained from Miss Ruth Radford, home demonstration agent.

DEFER ACTION ON FORECLOSURE SUIT

Pending result of a survey to clarify the question of a disputed property line, Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy has deferred consideration of the request of plaintiff's counsel for an order of sale in the $11,500 foreclosure action brought by Alva D. Wenrick against John M. Friend and Mary A. Friend.

The Friends, owners of an attractive stone bungalow situated on the Dayton-Xenia Pike, were recently sentenced in federal court to long prison terms.

Wenrick owns property adjoining the bungalow. The foreclosure proceedings involve the remainder of a tract of 5.55 acres of real estate from which a previous conveyance had been made to the Greenmont Country Club, a golf club along the pike.
